different from its predecessors for some time past. Upon the surface it was encouraging, as the volume of transactions, though not large, was fairly well distributed, and the maintehance of Missouri Pacific in the van is inculcating the belief that Mr. Gould is really in the market. The improvement in prices was not large but it was fairly uniform. The friends of Reading took hold of it in a way that frightened a few of the shorts. The more important bear operators contend that they are out of the market, and claim that they have been forced to abandon it on account of its narrowhesa They assort that experience has shown them that if they trade as extensively as they wish to they simply become targets for their opponents. Mr. Gould is directly or indirectly responsible for the advance in Missouri Pacific, and discalm any desire to antagonize him. They are

for a time at least.

The market rather bears out the statement of those whose partiality for the short side is a matter of general notoriety. They would like to see a better market themselves, that is, a broader one, and are apparently going to give the buils a chance to develon speculation. Of course, this policy involves the desertion of a good many small dealers for short accounts. But who ever accused a bear of being a philanthronist? and as for following, he has very little use for one. In fact, a following, he has very little use for one. In fact, a following the success of the operations of a big bear in the same ratio that they contribute to be success of a bull movement. The dealings in Missour Pacific to-day were withings in Missour Pacific to-day were withings in Missour Pacific to-day were withings in Missour Pacific to-day were withing in the smarket for that stock. The fluctuations in Reading, which was quite as solive as Missouri Pacific, were much wither suc thurn in the market for the was in Sugar Refineries stock, the price of which was guivened early in the day upon rumors of a compromise or settlement in the produing littation of the People against the Trust, and in the afternoon it was spurted sharply on rumors of a decision favorable to the Trust in the injunction case that was at that time being argued in court. The market for Numer Refineries stock appears to be left almost smirely to the room traders, who appear to draw their inspiration as to its market course from the quondam Callfornia operator who was employed last summer by the most important interest in the Trust to sell its stock. A reasonable suspiction exists that the same operator is now engaged in working the holdings of other members of the Trust, who, up to this time, appear to nave overstayed their market.

The first effect of Mr. Windom's action in declining to buy any more 4 we can hold a force the money market will permit him to noid off long enough he will probably convince the holders of both of the principal classes
